THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1900

Oom Paul Kruger is again in the public eye, having recently arrived at Paris, where he is being entertained. His departure from the Transvaal had no quieting effect on the hostilities there, and General Botha is reported to have said, "Now that the old man is safely out of the way, let the fighting begin."

A series of snow storms, floods and gales in the east causes us to bring to timely remembrance, for Thanksgiving, the climatic favors which the people of the Pacific coast are accorded. We are so accustomed to the advantages of our mild climate that we fail to realize the discomforts we escape by being where we are.

Thanksgiving day is, in a sense, the best of our national holidays. It is or should be, a day of remembrance and thankfulness. We are a favored people. Whatever a man's political creed, he can not sanely assert that there is another country where the people enjoy the privileges and advantages that are accorded them in the United States. We have grown to be a most powerful nation and people and it is most fitting that we should set apart one day in the year, not to exult, but to reflect and to be humbly thankful, "lest we forget."

We can not afford to be proud or boastful. Each one is but a small atom in the great creation and it is well, once once in a while, to look beyond the narrow circle of every day environment, not forever keeping our eyes down, but sometimes looking up and around. When we do so and can realize things at some distance near their true dimensions and worth, all vainglorious pomp and boasting will seem in exceedingly bad taste. Whatever greatness our nation has been allowed to attain is the result of the integrity, the honesty, of its people. That is the only solid foundation for any nation, and as long as we remain on that foundation, we will be established in true greatness. It is well for us as a nation, to remember these things and to conduct our lives as though we realized them. If the people of the United States are blessed beyond those of any other nation, it is far from being wholly by their own efforts. Each generation builds for the one that comes after and our generation should accept the situation that comes to them, understandingly and most cautiously not to mar the good results of the work that has been done for us. In Oregon, we are especially favored, in prosperity, comfort and general well being and our own town of Grants Pass and the county of Josephine certainly have no reason for being behind hand in gratitude. Our town and county are enjoying probably the most marked season of prosperity in their history, and better still, we have the most alluring possibilities before us. As individuals, we have multitudes of blessings, homes, friends, health, comfort, the worth of which are beyond all estimate, and on Thanksgiving day, if on no other day in the year, we can surely lay aside our vexations and tribulations and, in a modest spirit of gratitude, be thankful for our many blessings.

Thanksgiving Services. Union Thanksgiving services will be held, Thursday, 29th inst. at the Baptist church at 10:30 a. m. Rev. C. W. Hays will preach the sermon. Come and worship!

"Ole Olson."

First and best of the Swedish comedy dialect plays to the theater-goers of this entire country is the "Ole Olson." Upon the recurring visits it wears fresh raiment and the lines suggest alteration, but the piece is always hailed with manifold delight, just as the standing room-only house at the cozy little Metropolitan did last evening. It was an unusual overflow house, and all the seats were taken.

The Swedish Ladies' National Quartet is the glittering specialty of the comedy. They introduce the last act with half a dozen melodious airs of their own country, and last evening, from a sheer effort to avoid an undue number of curtain-calls they started upon American National airs. It seemed as if the audience would not let them go. The quartet sweetly vocal music that has a peculiarly evocative and alluring flavor when rendered in the native tongue.—Oregonian, Nov. 12.

Frank Duff Killed.

Frank Duff, a miner from Galice, was killed on Sunday about half past one o'clock by an incoming freight train, near the S. P. D. & L. factory. It was an undoubted case of suicide and such is the opinion and decision of Coroner Hood, who held an inquest on the body. The old man kept in the middle of the track and walked toward the train until he met it. The train was on quite a stiff down grade and it would have been a difficult matter to have stopped even had there been any apparent reason for it. Duff was fully aware of the train's approach, had plenty of time to get off the track and would have done so had he not deliberately contemplated ending his life.

Engineer E. Zimmermann testified that he saw Duff coming at a distance of about 200 yards. Both whistles were blown and the bell rang. The air was on at the time and was put in emergency.

Tragedy at Jacksonville. One of the most sensational tragedies in the history of southern Oregon occurred at Jacksonville Saturday night. A family named Traylor had recently moved there from Douglas county. With them lived Miss Etta Beeson, the sister of Mrs. Traylor. Miss Beeson was engaged to a young man named Hardenbrook, whose home was near Drain. Traylor opposed the marriage. Some accounts assert that he was infuriated with Miss Beeson and had proposed elopement. Hardenbrook had arrived at Jacksonville that morning in response to a letter from Miss Beeson and they were to have been married on Monday. On the evening in question, Hardenbrook and Miss Beeson were visiting together in the kitchen at Traylor's. The young man sat with his back to the pantry, the door of which was open. About 11 o'clock Traylor slipped around to the rear of the house and shot Hardenbrook with a rifle, through the pantry window, the ball penetrating his brain. Traylor then ran a short distance to the corner of the old Rogue River distillery and there ended his own life with two bullets from the same weapon. Traylor leaves a wife and nine children, the eldest of whom is only 15 years of age. He had previously borne a good character. Hardenbrook bore a good reputation as a quiet sober young man.

Disappearance of Walter Brooking. On Monday, November 12th, Walter Brooking left his home at Smith River intending to meet Paul Fredricks at his cabin at Winchuck river, a distance of about ten miles. Mr. Fredricks left Smith River at the same time and proceeded by the wagon road, while Walter Brooking was to traverse the upland by a trail. As Brooking failed to arrive at Winchuck at the appointed time, Mr. Fredricks returned to Smith River valley to ascertain the cause of his delay and learned that he had not returned home or had been heard of after his departure. Upon Tuesday a searching party started out but failed to find the young man or hear anything of his whereabouts. Since then parties have been out every day from Smith River, Winchuck, Chetco and Crescent City, but every effort to learn the fate of young Brooking has been fruitless, although continued day and night. Brooking had a rifle and four cartridges. His faithful dog has not returned or been heard from. It is thought that Brooking could have left the trail for the purpose of hunting with a limited supply of ammunition. As to his fate we can only conjecture.—Crescent City News.

Extensive Improvements. T. A. Hood & Co. have recently completed a number of important additions and improvements in their bicycle establishment on Front street and are now better prepared than ever for all kinds of repair work on bicycles and kindred machines. They have built an addition to their building and have fitted it up as a machine shop of creditable capacity and have appliances to handle any work in their line that may come to them. Among a number of new machines installed, probably the most important is their new Star lathe, which is one of the finest machines of that description ever brought to Southern Oregon. The new machines are all power tools, the power being furnished by the city water and the shop has an array of belts, shafts and pulleys which proclaim it a manufactory of no mean importance. The water wheel which transmits the power to the machinery is especially worthy of mention as it is a contrivance designed and manufactured by Hood & Co. and works to absolute perfection, producing more power with less water than the patented wheels which are manufactured for the purpose.

The extension and improvements in this establishment have been rendered necessary by the growth and increased proportions of the bicycle business as well as other business lines in Grants Pass and the firm deserves much commendation for their activity in keeping well to the front in the lively procession.

A Few Pointers. The recent statistics of the number of deaths show that the large majority die with consumption. This disease may commence with an apparently harmless cough, which can be cured instantly by Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs, which is guaranteed to cure and relieve all cases. Price 25c. and 50c. For sale by all druggists. The best method of cleansing the liver is the use of the famous little pills known as DeWitt's Little Early Risers. Easy to take. Never gripe.—W. F. Kremer.

When the Hair Falls Out. It is a common complaint, especially among the young, and is caused by a diseased condition of the scalp. The hair falls out, and the scalp becomes sore, itchy, and inflamed. The disease is made worse by the use of harsh soaps and shampoos. The only safe and infallible cure for this disease is the only antidote for the specific poison. It cures the worst cases of itching and permanently restores the hair to its natural growth. It is the only safe and infallible cure for this disease. Mining Notes. C. H. Parks, the mining engineer, returned last Wednesday evening from a trip to the Blue river district. D. H. Lawrence, superintendent of the Waldo Gold and Copper Smelting company, left Thursday evening for San Francisco. Arthur Howland will act as superintendent of the C & C mine on Jump-off Joe and is now engaged in the preparatory work of fitting up the mine for operation. Van B. DeLahmunt of Spokane and W. Moorhead of London, England, visited the Gold Dredge Josephine near Waldo last week, returning to Portland, Wednesday evening. Frank Colvig came in last week from Evans creek and went to Galice to resume his work at the Rocky Gulch placer. With B. R. and Chas. Moore, he has been working on a quartz prospect that gives most encouraging promise. They have gone down about 25 feet on an incline, following the vein, which at that depth is in hard solid rock. The ore at the top was very much decomposed, with the quartz in small particles, but at the depth they have reached, the quartz is much more solid and the ledge presents a much more permanent appearance. The ore is very rich, the decomposed matter yielding from 5 to 25 cents to the pan. Above this vein, at a distance of a few feet and running on the same "dip," is another of almost exactly similar appearance, but carrying apparently no value. These veins approach each other as they go down and seem likely to run together at a little greater depth. The auriferous vein runs from a few inches to a foot and a half in width. They have now about five tons of ore on the dump and will have a mill test made in the near future.

Washington Letter. (From Our Regular Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, Nov. 13, 1900. A quorum of the senate could easily be mustered in Washington today. Senators of the dominant party are talking very cautiously of what will be done at this session of congress and some of the most influential of them are frowning down the idea of reducing the representations in congress and the electoral college of those Southern states which have constitutionally disfranchised some of their voters, and the president is being quoted against the scheme, which now seems to have next to no chance of going through. Minority senators are reticent. They say that it depends entirely upon the attitude of the majority whether the session is a business one or a political bear garden. Senator Harris, of Kansas, one of the minority said: "We face grave questions that need to be solved and they ought to be acted upon with all the wisdom and foresight the nation can summon. It would be folly for the republicans to prevent harmonious action on those subjects by angering the minority through the passage of a reapportionment bill that would decrease representation from the southern states. I do not believe the republicans will try such a thing. They want harmony at this session of congress."

That the cut in war taxes cannot be made very deep by this congress is made apparent by Secretary Gage's estimates for the current and the next fiscal year. This year the excess of receipts over expenditures will be about $80,000,000 but the estimate for the next fiscal year is that it will only be $30,000,000, if the war taxes are left undisturbed and the present average of receipts therefrom is maintained. That is why it is not believed that the bill for the revision of the war taxes, which is now being considered by the ways and means committee of the house, will reduce the war taxes more than $15,000,000; and if the wrangling among the various interests seeking a reduction or repeal of some of the war taxes, gets too warm, there may be no reduction at all.

Gen. Miles, in his annual report, again urges the necessity for a thorough reorganization of the army and for the enlargement of the regular army to at least one man for every thousand of our population. He is very emphatic in declaring that we have not enough regular troops at home. In his own words: "The force has been so much reduced, that at the present time there are not one fourth enough troops properly to care for and man the fortifications which have been erected on the sea coast at an expenditure of nearly $55,000,000."

Congressional investigations are never treated with any too much respect in Washington, because very few of them have ever been so conducted as to command the respect of unprejudiced persons. Present indications are that the investigation of the expenditures and receipts in Cuba, since it has been under American control, ordered by resolution adopted by the senate at the last session of congress, when the Neely case was disgusting honest people, will be no exception to the rule. The senate committee on relation with Cuba was charged with making this investigation, and as a starter, it called on the War and another departments for a complete statement of moneys handled in Cuba. Although that was month's ago, the committee only held its second meeting several days ago, and after carefully excluding the newspaper men, solemnly adopted a motion to adjourn subject to the call of the chairman, because the information asked for was not complete, which probably means that no actual investigation will ever be made by the senators. Some day they may make a report on the figures submitted to them by the departments.

In making the early announcement that he would not accept the general invitation to remain with him, extended by the president to all members of his cabinet, Attorney General Griggs may have been actuated by a feeling of sympathy for the large number of persons who had been deprived of their usual occupation of making cabinets after each national election, by the president's invitation. Those industrious individuals have no cabinet to make this time, but they can now busy themselves in making an attorney general. Secretary Gage says he hasn't made up his mind whether he will remain in the cabinet, and doesn't expect to for a little while.

After Baby Comes. In the days following the baby's birth there is often a long uphill struggle to recover strength, and the nurse busies herself in the preparation of jellies and broths for the invalid. When Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is used as a preparative for motherhood, the baby's advent is practically painless, there is abundant strength to nurse and nourish the child, and a rapid recovery from the shock and strain inseparable from maternity. "I was pleased that Dr. Pierce answered my letter," writes Mrs. C. W. Young, of 21 South Regent Street (London, England). "I had a perfect romp of a boy; he is the light of our home. I can now nurse my baby as I wish, and I have not lost my appetite and have not had any of those nervous headaches I did not know what to do; they used to get me nearly crazy, and I used to dread to get up, I could not sleep, then I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. When baby was expected I took it all the time I was that way. I felt fine all the time, and I never got those dizzy spells now. I hardly ever have a nervous headache any more. I have a perfect romp of a boy; he is the light of our home. I can now nurse my baby as I wish, and I have not lost my appetite and have not had any of those nervous headaches I did not know what to do; they used to get me nearly crazy, and I used to dread to get up, I could not sleep, then I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. When baby was expected I took it all the time I was that way. I felt fine all the time, and I never got those dizzy spells now. I hardly ever have a nervous headache any more.
